Fort Hunt's seventeenth year proved to be a very special homecoming for the Federals after the tragic fire that marred our school last year. Returning to the Fort on September 4, 1979, many found that not only the building had changed but also the atmosphere. Amid the mass of confusion of the first day, one could sense a special feeling of excitement and anticipation. We tried to blot out that terrible night in December as we glanced at the newly painted walls and lockers that had been gutted with water and smoke damage. We knew that we could not forget, but we had to go on from here. We had fought to keep Fort Hunt open and had won! We won because we have a community that stands behind us and does care.

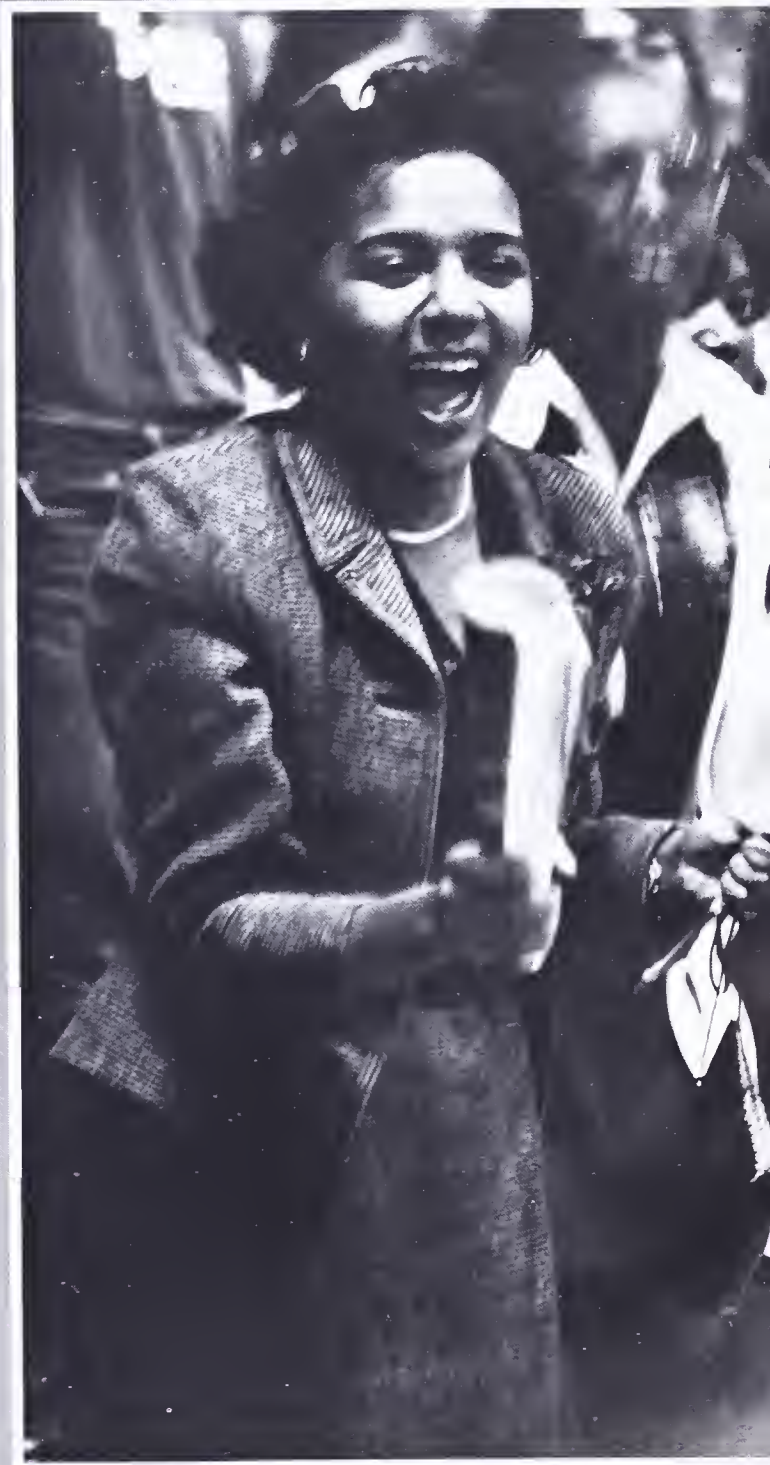

FORT HUNT LIVES

FEATURES

Since the beginning of this year, we have been busy making up our minds about our future. Monday through Friday we devote our time to the instruction of our class. But whenever it is time to go to class, we are always walking through the streets of our city, looking for a place to go. We are all united in our effort to improve our school. After school hours and weekends are time for us to do the things we like to do.

Whether it be going to the library, early morning hours for the school or going to the gym, we are a group of students who are always interested in doing things that help our school.

A Dream Come True For Princesses

Excitement filled the air as Homecoming halftime approached. The band was getting ready for their performance. The cars, chauffeuring the princesses, were ready to go. The buzzer sounded and it was half-time. Anticipation and suspense were in the air. As the floats and convertibles drove by, the smiles seemed to broaden. The crowd was breathless, as each hoped for his favorite candidate. The students had taken a great deal of time selecting just the right girl to represent them. The girl they had chosen was someone who was not only pretty, but also someone who had contributed to their group or organization. The announcement sounded throughout the entire stadium . . . "the Homecoming Queen for 1979 is Chrysionne Williams." She was surrounded by all of the other princesses as she received her bouquet and her crown from the 1978 Homecoming Queen, Cathy Williams. The suspense had now gone, but the excitement had only just begun.

Once Upon A Time

Homecoming 1979 was a special event for Fort Hunt this year as it marked the return of old alumni, as well as the student body to their school.

Festivities began with Spirit Week when students showed their enthusiasm by participating in activities like Green and Gold Day or by going to the bonfire. Topping off the week was the Pep Rally where Feds showed they were glad to be back together cheering for their school. Fans turned out in large numbers to cheer their team on against Groveron, a temporary home away from home last year. The team kept up an old tradition by beating the Tigers 9-0.

Homecoming 1979 climaxed with the dance in the gym where couples discovered it was more of a homecoming sock hop than a dance. By 11:30 p.m., Saturday night, the week's frantic pace was over; but the spirit remained. It was truly a homecoming for Fort Hunt in every sense of the word—together, at home . . . glad!

One Enchanted Evening

While finishing dinner at a fancy restaurant, excitement about the Fifteenth Annual Homecoming Dance mounted. All anyone knew about the dance was little bits of information that had leaked out — but, basically, no one knew quite what to expect because holding a dance in the gym was a new experience for everyone.

As couples walked into the gym, an air of magic set in; the ceiling sparkled with stars, huge murals of wizards and such adorned the bleachers, and, of course the lights were dimmed. It was indeed some enchanted evening.

The band, The Wizard, played favorites like Lynard Skynard, Stryx, the Knack and Heart. A general rock atmosphere was present as everyone got down to the beat. Various service clubs provided refreshments for the hungry dancers. All agreed that the Student Government had done a fine job.

Contests, special events make up spirit week '79

Weeks were spent in preparation for Spirit Week 1979. The Student Government started early recruiting volunteers to help with such necessities as decorations for the dance and coordination of all the events. The usual problems arose — too much to be done and not enough time in which to do it. Various clubs sponsored some rather interesting activities such as the Sexy Legs Contest, won by Mr. Brian Tully and Steve Allen, Spirit Chain, and Dress - Up Day. The girls were actually expected to refrain from speaking to guys for "Big Mouth" Day! Friday was the culmination of all the effort as 1600 spirited students crowded into the gym for an half - hour of screaming spirit.

Student leaders meet in outdoor setting

Early the morning of September 15, eighty student leaders from Ft. Hunt met in the parking lot and piled on buses. Sleeping bags and suitcases and coolers full of food were prepared to go, and the buses took off. The Student Government had been busy with the organization and planning of the First Annual Leadership Conference at Prince William Forest Park for months.

Administrators were there, dressed in flannel shirts and jeans. The outdoor location of the workshop made a relaxing and different atmosphere; however, relaxation was not the purpose of this trip. Meetings held with administrators, the Student Government officers, Dr. Herman Howard, and Toni McMahan, PTSA officer, made for some enlightening discussions. Questions were raised about the grading system and the PTSA. A panel discussion with panel members from all aspects of the school and a group talk about vandalism and apathy in the school were important parts of the two-day affair.

Of course, everyone was given a chance to go hiking in the scenic woods and the movie classic, "Reefer Madness," made for unique entertainment.

The trip was a great success, as the leaders of Ft. Hunt High School were given a chance to get to know one another better and to understand and cope with problems that arise during the year as a leader.

Bottom: The Woodsy atmosphere of the park influences a group of energetic hikers sitting on a natural bridge. Top: The SG officers put on a skit about cutting through red rope. Here Condé Striper (alias Laurie Sugg) and Mr. Dietze (Decky Friedberg) discuss the procedures used to organize an activity.

Is there life after high school?

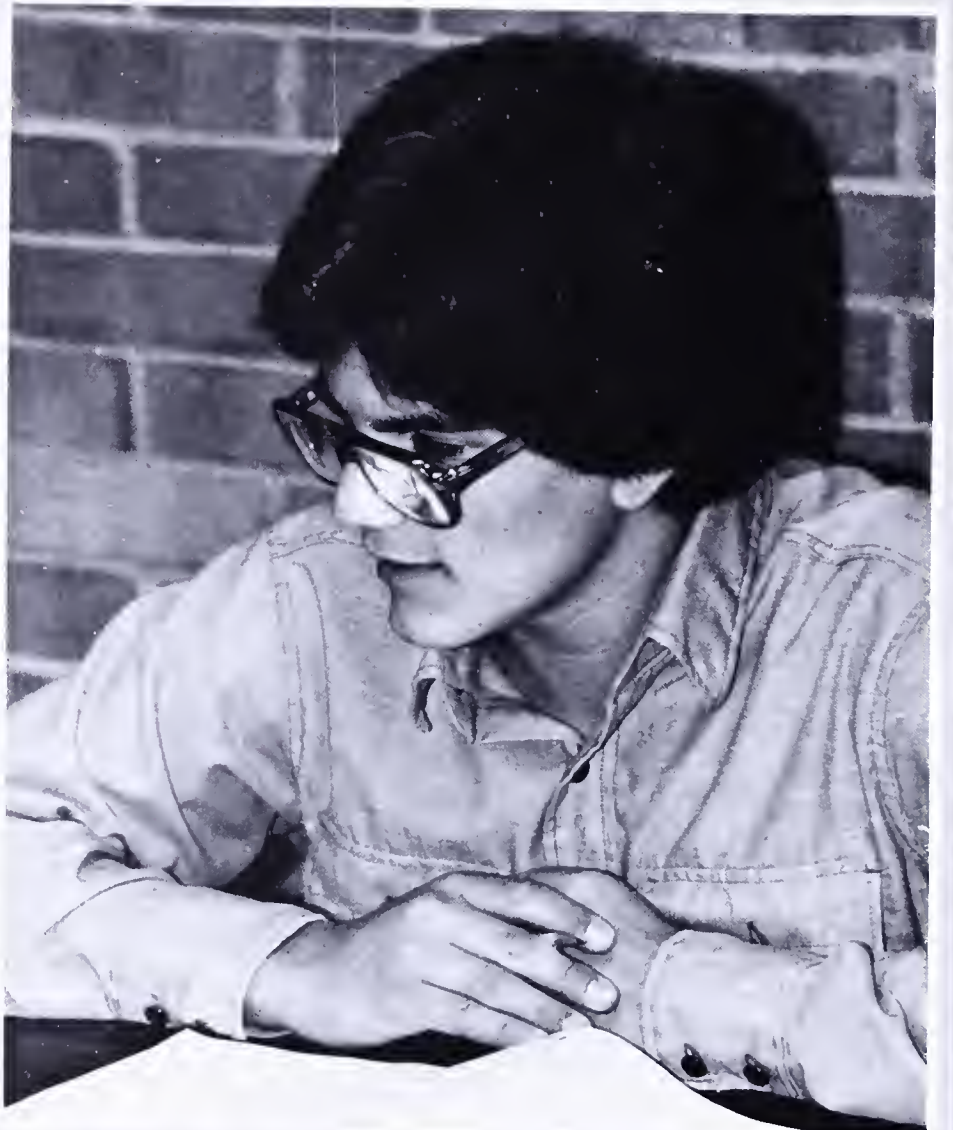

Even as early as the eighth grade, students are preparing for life after high school. Some people go on to higher education and attend college, and others start their careers right away. The choice is made early by the selection of classes for high school. College-bound students usually chose a more academically challenging schedule, whereas students seeking a vocational career would choose a schedule that would actually help them at a particular job.

Some examples of vocational skills which a student may attain while attending Fort Hunt are in the areas of masonry, plumbing, electronics, mechanics, architectural drawing, and commercial art. Some college courses and preparatory courses are also offered at Fort Hunt. Calculus and A P Physics are examples of this.

High school is supposed to be a preparation for life. One can find many opportunities around the school to plan for the future.

MAKING DO

The 1979 - 80 school year was a year of adjustment for Fort Hunt High School. Although the school was ready for use by Sept. 5, portions of the building were not ready for occupation. The home economics department, the auditorium, the cafeteria kitchens, and the administrative offices had not been completed. Students were forced to make the best of what they had, something Fort Hunt has gotten used to doing since December 1978. Not only students had to put up with the situation, but also the faculty was hindered by the situation. Box - loads of books were left at Mr. Vernon when they should have been at Ft. Hunt, and the administration had to put up with the library as a temporary office for three long months.

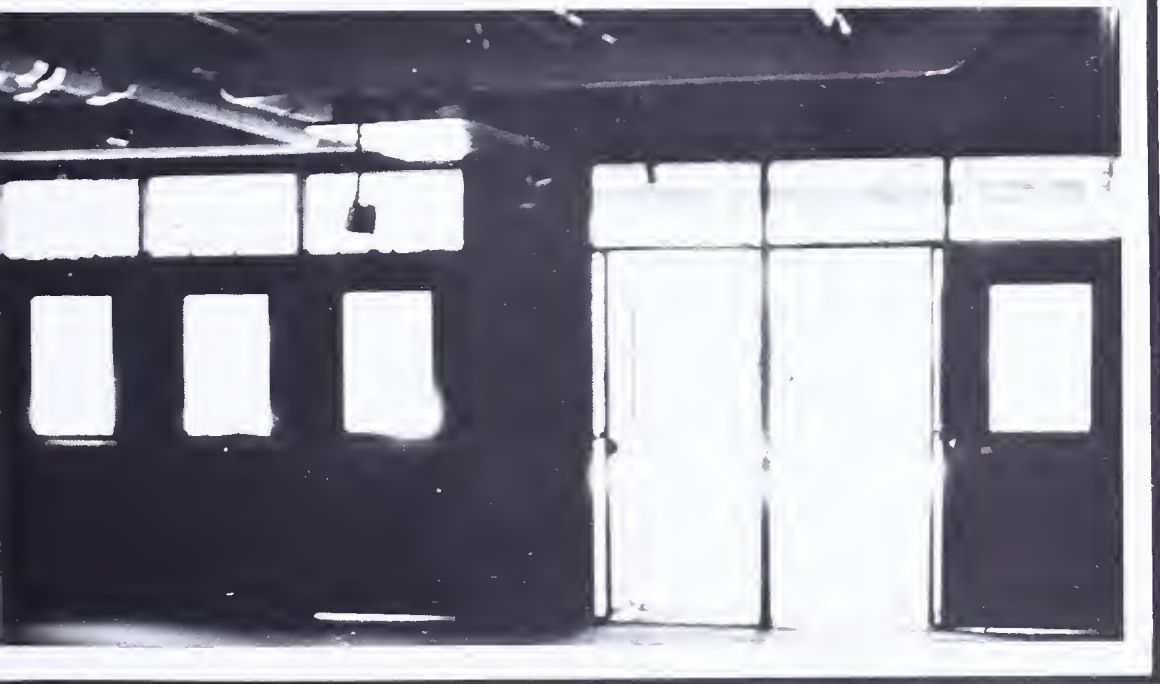

We can all remember the hunger pangs experienced as the home - ec classes barbecued chicken in the courtyard ... and then going to the cafeteria to face those delicious (?) sack lunches!

But through all the inconveniences and make shifts, we pulled together as one unit - namely Fort Hunt High School.

Just Hangin' Out

The smoking lounge is becoming increasingly popular as a gathering place for students. Here Roxonne Lemeshewsky, Kenny Wright and Sara Cooper discuss the day's events.

One of Fort Hunt's oldest hangouts, Jack Hall radiators, provides a good perch for Tina Braun and Brian Roberts.

Throughout the year, everyone hung out some place or another. A hang out was not a particularly unusual or exciting place - just a place where people could get together. Many of the local elementary schools proved to be a convenient place to hang out, as well as Mt. Vernon Hill and even the old traditional Jack Hall.

From the 90 days of spring to the 20 days of winter, the smoking lounge was always a popular hangout. If you were not an outdoor person, maybe Jack Hall or the lobby of the Lecture Demonstration Room was more your place to hang around. No matter who you were, there was always some where within the mighty walls of Ft. Hunt that you could stand around - just to shoot the breeze.

After school you had a wide variety of places to spend your afternoon. Some people chose to stay home in front of their favorite soap opera, while others ventured as far as Popkins Hill. Either way, it was your choice and your place to hang out.

Overall there were many in and out of school hangouts. Some of them may not mean anything to you, while others may bring back some of the best memories of the year. A place was just a place, until it was invaded by Ft. Hunt students and named an official hangout.

WEEKENDS...

During each of the 36 long weeks, students and teachers alike looked forward to those two magic days known as the weekend. Finally the 2:20 bell rang on Friday and cries of "Party" echoed throughout the halls. Suddenly, the question of what to do arose. The choice, whether studying or marathon parties, was determined by the individual. Many people used the weekend as a chance to make money, jobs ranged from babysitting to fast food restaurants. If one's time was not occupied by a job, the choices were numerous. Many Federals enjoyed the local ice and roller skating rinks; others preferred staying home and watching television. Generally Fort Hunt students enjoyed getting together with friends on the weekends. These little get togethers often grew into big get togethers, which soon became known as parties. Often, by the time Sunday rolled around Fort Hunt students may have felt more like sleeping. Recuperation was an important part of everyone's weekend. Some students went off to church while others got up for work. Then Monday crept up, faster than expected, and Federals all over dragged themselves out of bed and to first period. The cycle had begun again.

Taking advantage of the year's first snow, Hank Barns and Bob Gibbons hit Mr. Vernon Hill to take part in the traditional snowball fight.

Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y searched for a band to play and discovered Aspen, a group that was liked by all. The clubs also put up the decorations and sold cokes. The decorations consisted of cupids on the walls, hearts hanging from the ceiling with names of couples on them, and streamers in pinks and reds.

The turnout for the dance was not as well as expected, however, the usual dance atmosphere took over as Aspen played many top 40 hits. Also at the dance Mr. Wonderful, Senior Dobby Johnson, was announced. Other nominees were: Jeff McGough and Mike Labonge for Seniors; Chris Ryan and John Howell for the Juniors; Jeff Richards and Jeff Farmer for the Sophomores; Bryan Gurhrie and Eddie Goodwin for the Freshmen.

DEADLINES

A 1040 tax form is a familiar sight for the working student at Fort Hunt.

Every day of our lives we are faced with deadlines. It is a never-ending cycle of organization, planning and doing. In every aspect of our lives, from research papers to newspaper deadlines, from getting to school on time to finishing an exam by the time that dreaded bell rings, we are always confronted with a feeling of pressure to "do it now."

- *the Senior English research papers
- *getting to work on time
- *college applications due in Mrs. Nichols' office no later than
- *taxes due April 15
- *getting up at 5:00 to study for history
- *reading a book or Cliff notes for English before the test
- *registering for SAT's, ACT's, AP exams, PSAT's
- *48 hours to clear up absences

BLOOD, SWEAT

School is a pain. From the agony of Senior Slump to recovering from injuries sustained after incurring the revenge of a friend whose lawn is covered with do-nuts and r.p., from the nervous breakdown caused by the fact that that research paper is due next period and no bibliography has been typed, to sweating out on extra hard soccer practice.

All of us have experienced the pain and frustration of learning, growing and competing involved in high school. However, we've made it through another year, leaving behind the memories of the blood, sweat and tears.

AND TEARS

The Fort Rededicated

The crowd at the ceremony consisted of students, administrators, teachers and parents — all of the elements that make up Fort Hunt High School

Speakers included Mrs. Jane Hall, Fort Hunt Latin teacher, who has been a member of the faculty since the school opened in 1963

Performances by the Fort Hunt band, orchestra and chorus add a touch of student life to the festivities

Fort Hunt High School opened for the first time in September 1963. The first students that passed through Ft. Hunt's halls were ninth, tenth, and eleventh graders. The Class of '65 was the first graduating class from this school. Since that time over 5,000 students have graduated from this school.

The school grounds were once a part of the original George Washington Estate. The school was named to honor Henry J. Hunt, Major General, U. S. Army. Maj. Gen. Hunt commanded the fort built on this tract of land in 1862. The fort was built to protect the Potomac River approach to our Capitol.

In 1979, as in 1963, we opened without the services of a cafeteria. In 1963 students and teachers brought lunches and ate in the classrooms. There was a close feeling, a common bond, among students, faculty, administrators and parents. We have learned much from our experiences and we feel we can reach, ad astra per aspera, to the stars through difficulties.

On February 24, 1980, Ft. Hunt High School was rededicated to all those who made the reopening of the school a reality.

Where Deadlines And Mac's Meet

In September, sixty eager Federals crowded into the Fortress office expecting an easy "A" for what they thought would be an easy class. Much to their surprise, however, the class entailed work. Many class periods were spent writing and rewriting, cropping long awaited pictures, striving for an acceptable layout, and typing. Class periods soon turned into hours after school which included numerous "runs to Mac's." Ambitious members even sacrificed a few Saturdays to meet the essential deadlines. As the work increased, Fortress members began dropping like flies, and soon there were only thirty-five left. These remaining few kept "working" and "running to Mac's", and by June it was as clear as the writing on the wall that they were now Fortress veterans.

While cropping pictures for a special feature, Becky Smith appears oblivious to the normal confusion. Teaching basic layout rules to new staff members is only one of editor-in-chief Alon Pitts' jobs. Here, he aids clubs staffer Debby Price.

Innovative ideas, unique features, special issues make a newspaper succeed

This year's Frontline marked a new phase in the paper's development. Due largely to the efforts of Editor-in-Chief Christopher Miller, issues took on a new look with the use of typeset print. Some unique features added were a personality profile and a sports page column, "From the Pressbox." New also was the publication of various special issues, among them a November "Club Issue" and a Frontline/Turrent joint issue.

Frontline published monthly in 1979 - 1980, and produced the spring 1980 issue of the People & News Magazine. Section editors Rebecca Friedberg (news), Laurie Sugg (features), Ray Parisi (sports), and Richard McGovern (sports), were responsible throughout the year for the completion of their respective pages. Photography Editor Raby Irish and Art Editor Thorina Rose added the Midas touch of creativity. Frontline was sponsored by Mrs. Jane Glazer.

Art, literature plentiful at Fort

Fort Hunt's literary and art magazine, TURRET, made a devoted effort this year to raise the quality of its product. TURRET was established to give students an opportunity to see their creative work published. Despite lack of funding, the staff managed to raise enough money on their own to put out an impressive Spring issue.

TURRET tried to involve a greater number of the student body. The editors, led by John Elliott, sorted through the creative writing, art, and photography with the ambition of publishing a magazine with a diversified crew of artists and authors.

TURRET is trying to build for the future. Eventually they hope to become well known among the student body.

Hard Work Fulfills Service Clubs Aims

Working hard at various workshops, TRI - HI - Y prepared material for the Christmas Bazaar in December. Sponsored by Mrs. Anderson, the unusually large group (membership of 85) held many fund raisers as well as collecting for UNICEF at Halloween. The group, led by Mary Bean, held a Sweater Party for students to purchase sweaters at wholesale prices. The club also sent representatives to the Model General Assembly in Richmond, where a gathering of selected students participated in leadership training.

HI - Y started the year with two social activities: a dinner at the Fishhouse and a picnic at Farr Hunt Park, both with TRI - HI - Y. The club sponsored a very successful Valentine's Day/Mr. Wonderful Dance in February. HI - Y enlarged its ranks with two membership drives in the fall and spring. President Dave Bundren and sponsor Mr. Craig held many special meetings to select delegates to participate in MGA.

Clubs' Dedication Improve The Fort

Working hard the Junior Civitians keep up their good standards of excellence. The club continued their Friday donut sales in Crystal City for the Association for Retarded Citizens. Led by president Maggie Linneman, the main fund raiser for the year was the fruitcakes which they sold at different places in the area, throughout the Christmas season. Visits were made to the Mr. Vernon Nursing Home. The year ended at the district convention in Ocean City in May. All the work during the year proved to be worthwhile.

Concentrating on reorganization the Civic Club, led by president Stefanie Wolicki, continued its tradition of service. The sponsor, once again, was Mr. Wilkinson.

Students Serve Community

Working to rebuild club membership and raise funds, the Future Homemakers of America made themselves visible throughout Fort Hunt. Members could be seen selling tantalizing baked goods after school and cleaning blackboards for teachers. They wished teachers a Merry Christmas with cards and candy cane pens. The club also served the community by "adopting" patients at a nursing home. Each member would choose a patient to write to and do other friendly things to add happiness to their lives. The club made 1980 a happy year for many people.

To gain knowledge of the Black culture and heritage, the Black Cultural Alliance attended many productions at the Kennedy Center and surrounding theaters. They were both drama and dance productions. The club also helped the community by collecting for a Christmas basket to be given to senior citizens. They celebrated Black History Month with many successful projects which added to the fun of the year.

Preparing For Business World

Distributive Ed students combine classroom experience with on-the-job training

Benefiting not only themselves, but also their community, the Future Business Leaders of America worked hard this year. Members collected food to provide a happy Christmas dinner for some of the community's senior citizens. They helped charity organizations by collecting for Unicef and participating in the March of Dimes Walkathon. During FBLA Week, members attended lectures given by prominent business people from the Fort Hunt area.

The members of the Distributive Education Club of America are introduced to the business world through classroom instruction and the experience of on-the-job training. The members met with their employers on a more informal basis at an employee-employer banquet. DECA began the year with many successful fund-raising projects including carnation sales during Homecoming Week, and the printing and selling of signs for other clubs. To add to an already exciting year, members went to New York City to learn more about the fashion industry. By the end of the year, the members had gained knowledge of the business world.

Students Delve In Foreign Cultures

The 1980 Latin Club celebrated the Roman culture with much pomp and circumstance. Members donned their togas to attend a festive dinner at the Italian Cafe in Falls Church, again at the Junior Classical League Convention in Roanoke, Virginia, and the Saturnalia or Christmas party at Wakefield High School. In addition to attending eight Latin Bowls, including the Washington Classical Bowl, members attended lectures during Pompeii Day at the University of Maryland. They later returned to the university to compete in Olympic games held there. Club members attended the play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," at the Folger Theater. During the second week in March enthusiastic members promoted National Latin Week, proving that in 1980, Roman culture, like Fort Hunt, will endure.

Not to be outdone, members of the German Club perpetuated their culture by participating in a traditional Oktoberfest and holding a Fress Aus where members feasted on German delicacies. In the annual German vs. Latin soccer game the Deurches defeated the Romans 6 - 2. The club also set a new precedent by sponsoring the first annual German Club Newspaper, and crowned the first "German Club Member of the Year" to promote membership. Members also purchased German games and books from the proceeds of their famous Gummi Bear sales to be used by future German scholars.

And Speak The Native Language

Every other Thursday the mademoiselles and manskieurs of Fort Hunt gathered during their usual ensemble in room 223; here they planned candy and bake sales to sponsor their annual Christmas celebration. It was also here that the Frenchmen determined their game strategy to be used in the volleyball game against the German Club. This was also the origin of the club's journey to the French embassy; and it was from here that the club journeyed to Les Taminets where some members dined and others gorged on the magnificent French cuisine.

Spanish Club members also enjoyed great food when members gathered at El Caribe for a South American meal and to learn more about the Spanish culture. They attended Spanish-related activities and festivals held in the Washington area. Selling stationary, members raised funds to sponsor an underprivileged child in a Spanish speaking country. All this made 1980 a buenismo year for the Spanish Club.

Discovering New Worlds

Under the knowledgeable leadership of Mrs. Franke, the Russian Club met on Thursday afternoons to get a view of Russian culture that is not learned in the classroom. Participation in the International Food Day in December and hall decorations for Homecoming were some of the club's activities.

On Wednesday afternoons in the planetarium, Astronomy Club members met to enhance their knowledge and appreciation of the heavens. Weekly field trips to the Goddard Space Flight Center, science lectures at George Mason University and trips to the National Air and Space Museum played a big part in the activities of this year's "Stargazers." Evening observing sessions and lecture topics included black holes, universe origins, pulsars, neutron stars, and astronomy terminology and usage.

Meeting regularly on Thursday afternoons, members of the Art Club got together to share their creativity. Under a very close, friendly atmosphere, they planned and made decorations for the Homecoming Dance. At Christmastime, they sold scarves to raise money to buy a Christmas tree for the front hall. In November, a busload of art students and club members went to Virginia Commonwealth University to observe the different aspects of art, and education on the college level, including glass blowing, sketching, and painting. Other field trips included visits to museums in the Washington Area.

After becoming a casualty of the fire, the Audio Visual Club returned to Fort Hunt. Under the able leadership of Mr. South, the club has been of great help to the performing arts of the school. Running the lights for the drama department's production of "Horvey" in early February was just one of the club's activities. It also helped record the choral department's singing when they competed in a Christmas carol contest sponsored by the radio station WMAL. Roger Vasilas, the club's president, was a common sight at the home basketball games with his video cameras, recording the competition. But, the A.V. Club was not all work. They also went on a field trip to the Naval Photography Center in Washington, D.C.

Creativity seems to flow from Michele Wither's pencil.

Fort Hunt Discovers Mogul Madness

Poor conditions caused the Ski Club to cancel its first two trips, one in early December to Seven Springs and the Christmas trip to Quebec. Finally, in January, a busload of rowdie skiers were off to hit the slopes. Nothing could discourage these ski fanatics. Not even long lift lines and icy patches. Although Seven Springs is a favorite of Fort Hunt skiers, it is not yet known whether Fort Hunt is a favorite of Seven Springs Staff. It seemed as if our high spirits were carried throughout the resort. The club's trips provided a chance to perfect member's skiing skills, as well as give them a break from Mom and Dad and a weekend of non-stop partying. Despite the lack of snow in early winter, the Ski Club did manage to have a good season.

Federals Take Speed And Aim

Can you imagine a club in which you spend your time racing? This was the Motorcycle Club and they practiced on the weekends. Most of the club's time was spent in organization trying to find a sponsor and a legal place to ride their motorcycles. Mr. Gerber, the sponsor, put the president Don Suggs and the vice-president Kevin Lake to work. These officers tried to teach the rest of the riders skill but with safety. The club is not school sponsored so they had a hard time meeting riders from other schools. When all the teams did meet, it was great fun and some of the riders came out with trophies.

Wrapping up another winning season, the Federal's Rifle Club had a very exciting year. This year was known as their rebuilding year. With their regular hot shots Ray Slonena and Jeff Hoffman, the club made a respectable showing within the Northern Virginia High School Rifle League. With new standour shooters, Dave Hoyle, Tom Heinrichs, Don Bowman, Sean Connolly and Tom Mengershauser coming on strong, the club is looking forward to an even better season next year. Considering the level of talent shown so far, that will certainly be a challenge!

Games Build Concentration

Dealing with a game, the Dungeon -n- Dragons Club used no material products. It involved an imaginary game based on the world of Tolkein. The game takes place in the minds of the players. The individual members or players took on the personality of fighters, wizards, priests, and thieves in an imaginary world. This world was created by a person called a dungeon master. He also controlled the action of the game as the players go around the world defeating monsters and collecting treasures. The more the game is played the more powerful a player becomes. There are no real winners or losers in the game. The goal is to stay alive and learn as much as one can in the world he is in.

Mental skills are necessary to compete in the Chess Club. The United Virginia Chess Federation collected money which was then given to high schools. The team held their competitions every fourth or fifth week against other schools. Our team combined with Mr Vernon for simultaneous exhibitions. Most of the teams' time was spent playing the game more than analyzing it.

Students Gain Eloquence

Competing with other schools at college locations, the Debate Team increased their skills and knowledge of certain topics. Every year the Debate Team has a different topic and this year's topic was foreign trade. Before every meet the team researched at local libraries. When the team was at a meet they would go through a number of preliminary rounds then on to win trophies. They studied, prepared, and put in many hours toward their goal.

The fine art of public speaking was gained through Forensics. Categories included Prose, Poetry, Dramatic Interpretation, Dramatic Duo, Impromptu Speaking, Original Works, and Declamation. The team competed with schools in the Northern Virginia and Washington area which afforded an opportunity to meet students from other schools.

Feds Dominate Fields And Lanes

The frisbee craze spread through Fort Hunt with the creation of the new Frisbee Club. During the fall and spring, members met three times a week to practice for team games. Their first game was against Annandale, and although they lost, members gained experience and had a lot of fun. Members also helped each other to improve their skill in freestyle. They planned trips to tournaments in the Washington area. Having met with such great popularity, the Frisbee Club will be around next year.

Once a week, the Bowling Club met at the Ten Pin Coliseum. During these meetings, members improved their skills through competition between one another. In the spring, members used their experience against several schools in a bowling tournament. After an exhausting day of school, bowling was an enjoyable way of relaxing.

Combined Energy Gets Results

To the average student, Administrators appeared to do nothing more than supervise the cafeteria and school grounds; however, through the years, the administrators have done much more. They have been closely involved with teacher evaluations, text book selection, and student discipline. Another fact many students may not have realized this year was that each grade had assigned administrators: John Travis, twelfth grade; Rusy Glazer, eleventh grade; Cathy Allen, tenth grade, and Frank Creneri, ninth grade.

Beginning the new year in a temporary office in the stacks library, confusion was the precedent. With all the moving done last year, it was inevitable things would be lost and misplaced. After the move to the newly renovated offices, the confusion became minimal and the administration organized itself again.

The new office design brought much comment from the student body about the cage-like offices of the administrative staff. But whatever the new office looked like, it was a welcome change from the precarious arrangements of the first few months of the year. The administrative staff was able to start the new decade on the right foot.

Open Doors Welcome Students

Preparing students to meet the standards of their own personal needs throughout their years at Fort Hunt has been a primary concern of the Guidance Department. The counselors have provided students with the advice they've needed, along with helping them to develop a sense of responsibility for their education. Organizing testing for all grade levels and aiding seniors in the college decision process, as well as all the paperwork, have been major time consumers of the counselors; but they do much more. Much credit is rightly deserved to them for passing out I.D. cards, being assigned to cafeteria and hall duty, providing a job placement service and sponsoring special programs.

Helping Hands Keep School Going

Fort Hunt students were lucky to have a competant supporting staff this past year. Working in small cramped areas at the beginning of the year, the Secretaries met the challenge of being as efficient as they had been in the years gone by. After being moved to the new office, life seemed to go a little easier.

Nurses found that most of their patients came from the physical education department. They also ran into those strange illnesses that seemed to hit the students one period before a major exam. These ladies were a big help during the annual physicals as well as the organizing of the yearly event. All of the time and energy of these people was greatly appreciated by the entire student body.

Smiling Faces And Hard Work Go Together

Students greatly appreciated all the work the Custodians did to keep the Fort clean. The tedious job of mopping floors and dusting locker tops became an everyday routine. With the reconstruction of our school came the messes made by the construction workers, which were left for the janitorial staff to clean. Without these staff members, we wouldn't have had the clean school we had.

Working in very uncomfortable circumstances for the first part of the year, Cafeteria Workers bagged Super Sack lunches in a very small room. The student body was happy when they could once again purchase hot lunches. Always wearing smiling faces, the cafeteria staff was proud to serve the Fort Hunt students and staff.

Creative Minds Work Together

Many forms of creativity could be found throughout the Fort all year. The art teachers tried to get students to put their emotions or visions onto paper or canvas. Some art students went on a field trip to the Potomac River so they could paint Fort Washington. Each painting seemed to take on a different look. The Art Department offered special activity classes during seventh period to all interested students. Those who attended these classes enjoyed the opportunity to learn about art techniques.

Another form of creativity at the Fort was to be found in the Drama classes. Mr. Gassek, who taught the class, said that the main thing he was trying to do in the class was to create articulate human beings out of his students. Working on stage gave students the chance to learn how to project their voices so they could be heard. They were also taught proper stage movements and developed poise.

Feds Tune Into Music

Making up an important part of the fine arts was the Music Department. A total of eleven musically oriented classes were offered this past year, with 215 students in the department. These students were involved in studying music history and theory as well as performing. All these groups had Christmas concerts, giving the performers the chance to display their talents.

For Some Singing Is The Key To Life

In the past Fort Hunt Madrigals have always been a favorite part of all choral performances. This year held no exceptions; the group proved to be better than ever, having for the first time a class period devoted solely to these musicians. They gave numerous performances throughout the year and were once again invited to perform at Woodlawn Plantation. In addition they appeared at a Christian Women's meeting in front of an audience of 300 and also at the Mormon Temple. Dr. Monning was so pleased with the sound of this group that he invited them to sing at his church, Holy Spirit. Receiving the perfect pitch from Mary Bouldin, the Madrigals performed songs acappella in their costumes that come from the Renaissance period. This was an impressive group to see and hear.

Fort Hunt Creates Perfect Harmony

Welcoming a familiar face back again this year was the Chorus Department.

Mr. Murray, after taking a year's break, returned and put things back in full swing. The groups had several performances throughout the year. Early in the year the chorus sang at a tea welcoming new seniors. Although the renovation of the auditorium had not been completed by Christmas time, the chorus held their performances there, and had very successful concerts. In the spring they did the Broadway musical, "Godspell." Mr. Murray took a new approach towards soloists this year. He decided to give more people a chance; thus many new voices were heard from the stage.

As well as performances the chorus also participated in a festival. The group raised money to go to the festival in many ways, such as a candle sale. The involvement of Mr. Murray and the students was clearly seen throughout the year.

Musicians Continue To Excel

The Fort Hunt Symphonic Orchestra upheld its reputation as one of the finest in Fairfax County. Various members of the orchestra performed in duets and quarters at churches and historical sites throughout the community.

Many long hours of rehearsal were spent in preparation for the Winter Concert which was held on December 19. Part of their holiday repertoire was heard by the students during the Winter Assembly.

Under the direction of Marilyn Schwaner, the students once again participated in the Music Festival where they received a superior rating. The orchestra's traditional performance during Baccalaureate climaxed the year's activities. Hard work and dedication have contributed to the excellence of the Fort Hunt Symphonic Orchestra.

Noted Rewards For Musical Accomplishments

Under the direction of Mr. George Etheridge, the Marching Band started practice two weeks prior to the opening of school. They practiced twice a day during the summer and during fourth period when school reopened. Led by Drum Major David Debus, the Marching Federals placed second in both the Falls Church Tournament of Bands and the Mount Vernon Invitational Classic. At these competitions were bands from all over the East coast. The 86 musicians and 20 Flag Corps members performed pre-game and half-time shows at every football game.

In Tune With The Times

The Concert and Symphonic Bands performed a joint Christmas Concert on December 21. Symphonic Band was further honored by being invited to perform with the Fairfax Symphony Orchestra at the Kennedy Center on December 29. Later in the year they ventured to Atlanta for the Six Flags Over Georgia Band Contest. Symphonic Band is for the highly skilled musician and each student must audition for placement. Concert Band enabled students to further their musical skills. Fund raisers for both groups included the annual Citrus Fruit Sale and the Garage Sale at Stephen Foster Intermediate.

New Ideas Bring Innovative Changes

Transformation took place throughout the Drill Team's organization. The team's sponsor, Mrs. Loveless, formed a credited, semester class to accommodate the practices needed for precision performances. Other changes included the addition of new uniforms, a reduced squad set at forty members, and a revised constitution. To cover the cost of the uniforms the team cleaned books which had been damaged in the fire. They also held bake sales, car washes, and sold ornaments. In addition to their performances at football, basketball and soccer games, the Drill Team led the Homecoming Parade under the leadership of co - captains, Jill Johnson and Kathy Webb. The team's success was based on the remifications and activities which added a new dimension to their organization.

Physical Fitness Motivates Participation

For underclassmen and those students who excelled in sports, Gym Class provided an opportunity to break up the monotony of a five - period day in a classroom environment. It also served as an energy - frustration outlet, and kept many students going throughout the day. A variety of different sports were offered to the students, such as touch - football, gymnastics, basketball, volleyball, and others. Also included in the physical education program was drivers education, which created an interest in safe driving procedures, and health, which taught students the practical application of first aid. The factor which made gym most worthwhile was the element of participation. Those students who were active in gym found it an enjoyable and invigorating class.

Upgrading To New Dimensions

Before moving to the refurbished department, the Home Ec. students and teachers had to endure many hardships. The sewing classes had to work in one cramped room. For the cooking classes it was even worse; without stoves the classes had to use hot plates and run from room to room for water and utensils. When the department was finally finished it was a relief to all, and even though it took half the year it was well worth it.

Some of the classes worked outside of the school as well as inside. The Child Development Class went on a field trip to the maternity ward at Dewitt Army Hospital. The five day trip with the Fashion Merchandising Class was the highlight of the year for the upper level home ec. classes and the fashion sewing classes. All the activities of the year were rewarding despite the adverse conditions.

Vocational Learning Enhances Future

Although Industrial Arts was not a mandatory class, it was much work. Here one could learn about auto mechanics, arts and crafts, electronics and mechanical drawing. These vocational skills were offered to help a student through life and could also be useful ever if one were planning on going to college. This department is headed by Mr. Monticone. In General Maintenance students were required to make a project and get the teachers instruction on it. Many of these were very useful and well built.

Enlarging Area Broadens Curriculum

Returning to "The Fort," the Business Department underwent many changes this year. Reorganization began with new equipment provided to the department, while older equipment was loaned to the front office. Enlarging to state standards included "equalization": making three rooms into two typing rooms and the planning of the former library stacks to become a new model business office. New courses added to the curriculum such as record keeping and advanced typing offered greater challenges to the students and teachers alike. The return of advanced shorthand, after several years' absence, furthered the skills of career minded students.

Another addition to the department was Mrs. Efthymes, who taught fashion merchandising. As an activity of this class, a trip to New York proved to be an exciting experience. Mrs. Efthymes also sponsored the D.E. program. The students involved this year had the opportunity to gain additional vocational skills beneficial to the future. Mrs. Driscoll again sponsored C.O.E. This program enabled students to have a job and get credit for it. It also furthered their business experience and students had the opportunity to see what the business world was all about.

Students Find Motivation In Cultural Study

Taking a foreign language helped students to develop an interest in, an understanding of, and an appreciation for other cultures and people of the world. Furthermore, by becoming involved in a second language, students had an opportunity to express themselves in a new and different way.

The language classes actively demonstrated their interest in other cultures through their continuous involvement and enthusiasm. During the holiday season, the Christmas Bazaar was held by all of the language classes. Each class contributed food and a presentation representative of their country of study.

Taking a foreign language required a great deal of study and work, but those students who did participate found that studying another culture could be a rewarding experience.

Students Observe Life Through Science

Many advances were made in the Science Department this year. New facilities were designed which included seven labs to be rebuilt. New faces were seen in some classrooms as students from Groveton came to take part in our Advanced Placement Physics program. Other different faces were those of elementary school children who came to the planetarium to study astronomy with Mrs. Hennig. Several Biology II students entered projects in the County Science Fair with hopes that Fort Hunt would win first place for the third year. The components of an interesting and educational science department were well established because of the efforts of the faculty and students.

Progress Sparks Interest In Computers

Because of the growing need for computers in today's society, more students have become interested in Mr. Pare's computer science class. Four weeks into the first quarter, students found it difficult to understand basic processing, because the proper equipment was not available. This detainment was a result of the fire. However, the program picked up with the return of the computers, and was highlighted by a field trip to the Federal National Mortgage Association. After Mr. Pare's sudden departure, Mr. Moulds took over all of the computer science classes.

Traditional Courses Can Be Interesting

One of the many assets of the English Department this year was the English Team. The English Team, under the leadership of Mrs. Sylvia Seidel and their captain Allison Irvin, had always been a tradition at Fort Hunt although little had been known of it to many people. This year's tryouts were held in November and consisted of tests in vocabulary and spelling mostly. The scores were added up and the team members were placed in two separate groups according to their scores. During a competition, each group was allowed to work together to find the results of the problem within a three - minute time period. There was one meet in January and the team took the tests at Fort Hunt and sent their scores to be compared with the other schools in Fairfax County. Shortly afterwards, the team competed in another meet. After all of the schools were compared, the five schools having the best scores were able to compete in the finals. Our team expected to do very well and hoped to have more Federal support in the future.

Storehouse Of Knowledge Is Useful To All

Because of the fire, the library experienced many changes this year. When they began to reorganize last August, they had a great deal of help from service clubs, local organizations, and parents. During the months of reconstruction, the library was used by the builders as a headquarters because it was not badly damaged. The library no longer used the stacks portion because it would eventually be redesigned as a model business office. Because of this elimination, they had a problem with space. The fiction and short story collections were not available to students because the new addition was not completed. Even though there was much work to accomplish, the library got on its feet again.

Students Rewarded For Excellence

As a society that honors high school students for scholastic excellence, the Fort Hunt NHS continued to grow in membership. The main privilege gained by the members was the gold tassels and sashes that were worn at the graduation ceremonies. The NHS offered tutoring by members and also manned the Swap Shop. Members were required to keep up their GPA throughout the year to remain in the society.

Young Team Demonstrates Maturity

With the loss of many talented seniors from last year's squad, Coach Frank Crenetti and his crew had no trouble putting a respectable football team together at Fort Hunt High School. Led by a great defense, the Federals were still able to beat half of their opponents. Even though the Feds did not put too many points on the board this year, their offense was still able to move the ball with supremacy; but too many turnovers and mistakes halted their drives. Beating all their district opponents but district champs Mr. Vernon, the young and inexperienced Federals were able to take second place in the district. The Federals ended the season on a good note by shutting out their last three opponents!

With patience, Coach King helps the varsity football players get back into shape.

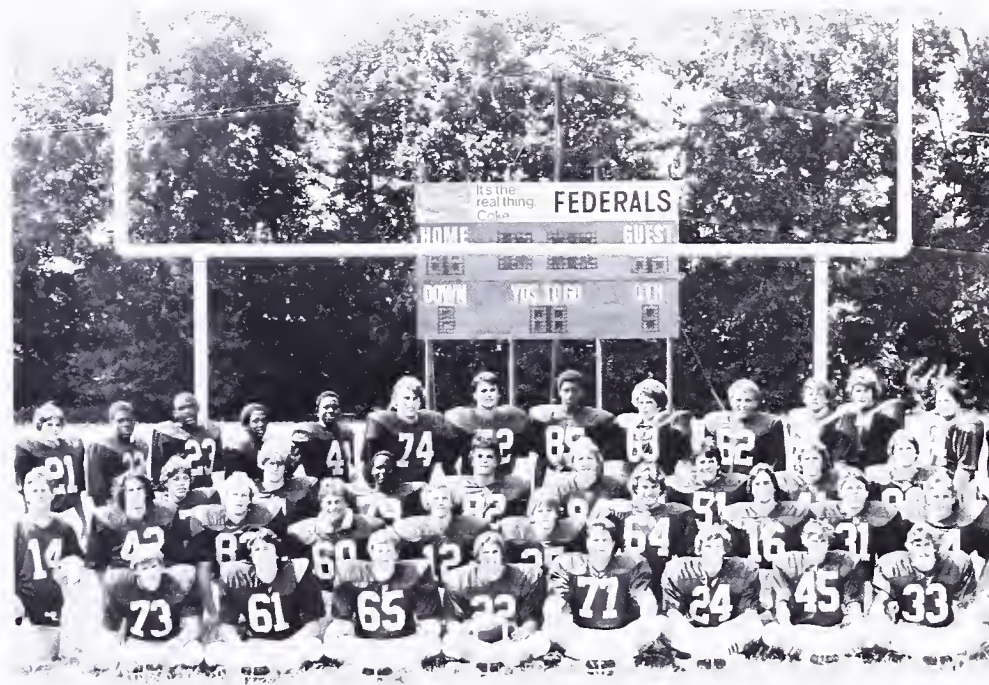

Though the field was muddy and slippery, the Fort Hunt Federals' defense was able to hold the Mr. Vernon Majors.

Powerful Defense Dominates

This year's powerful defense held their opponents to only ninety points in ten games. The defensive line was led by Seniors Greg Thompson, Neil Dodrill and Junior John Howerton. The hard hitting line backers were Junior Chris Ryan and Bobby Perry. The defensive backs who rarely got burned were Senior Dove Henry and Juniors Jay Pitts, Kevin Griffith and Evan Oliver. The unpredictable offense had problems moving the ball, but when Seniors Steve O'Hara, Ted Harder, and Mike Yellman got moving, they were rough to stop. The young and inexperienced line was led by Senior John Richards and Junior Steve Sawyer. With many key players returning, the Federals should look to much success for the future.

Speed, Agility Allow Victories

This year's JV Football Team had a devastating offense because of great speed in the backfield. The defensive team was a hard hitting and top - notched squad. Some outstanding players were lineman Jay Caldwell and Roger Carriker. Linebackers Kenon Bayoland Lonnie Lambert and backfielders Red Richards, Jimbo Venezia, Dave Gurhrie and Darren Belk also contributed to the team's success. The two halfbacks were speedsters Tony Mial and Darren Belk. The fullback was powerful Gregg Early, and freshman Ed Goodwin was the quarterback. Goodwin had a great ground attack and a fantastic aerial game to match. His favorite receiver was sure-handed Phil Jenney. The offense could not have moved as well if it had not been for the blocking by Brian Roberts and Scott Smith. The feared and rugged defense was rarely scored upon.

Great Effort Shown By Frosh

After a heartbreaking loss to the Lee Lancers in their opening game, the Freshman Football Team rebounded and won their following games to keep the winning tradition alive at Fort Hunt. The offensive squad had a rough time putting points on the board, but when they got things in gear, they were tough to stop. Clarke Carr called the signals with Bob Cox, Tony Lawrence, and Anthony Carrer in the backfield. The line was held by Jeff Gaetjen, Kevin Gallavan and Rick Walker. The successful defense had a great year holding their opponents to minimal points. The defensive standouts were Jay Gros, Scott McRae, Mike Day, and Eric Wood, who also handled the punting.

Squad Strives For New Image

Dominated by 13 seniors, the 1979 - 80 Varsity Cheerleading Squad consisted of many experienced and talented girls. All 15 girls attended camp at the University of Richmond where they put in long hours of hard work. The originality and creativeness proved itself when the girls captured the Grand Champ Award and returned home ready to use their new techniques. With the effective "Go - Fight - Win" chant, the squad was able to create team spirit at pep rallies and games. Unity and dedication, being the key elements of this years squad, provided Fort Hunt with qualified leaders to cheer on the mighty Federals in times of hardship or victories.

Runners Win

Led by junior Sue Milley and senior John Hubbell, the Girls and Boys Varsity Cross Country Team had great success this year. Contributing to the girls' winning year were sophomores Holly McGovern, Margaret Harned and Judy Hubbell. The girls captured the district and regional titles and took second in state. The boys had a very respectable season with juniors Kelly Shawn, Greg Henry, and Robby McNinch assisting Hubbell in the teams winning season. The cross country team is becoming one of the most successful teams at Fort Hunt and should capture many more titles for the Federals in the coming years.

Hockey Team Sticks Together

With good spirit and high hopes, the Varsity Field Hockey Team enjoyed a year of close companionship and lots of fun. By practicing everyday, the team worked well together, even though the season wasn't as successful as hoped. Chris Bauer, Mary Bean, and Melanie Carr took individual honors. Chris Bauer and Mary Bean made All District and Melanie Carr was the team's leading scorer.

Led by scorer Lillie Russell, the JV Field Hockey team was able to accomplish a very successful season. With a very young JV team, and with many returning starters, the Varsity Field Hockey Team should look to much success in the future.

Girls Tennis Team Has A Smashing Season

With many talented tennis players, the Fort Hunt Girls Tennis Team easily gained the Gunston District girls tennis title. Juniors Fritz Howard, Janine Clarke, Martha Ridder and seniors Tanya Day, Jane Gray and Pat Currin crushed most of their opponents. The team went undefeated all through the regular season, beating most of their opponents 9 matches to zero. After the regular season Fort Hunt's girls won the district tournament, only to lose in the finals of the regionals. Most of the key players will return for future seasons.

Wrestlers Surprise Opponents

With hard work and dedication the Fort Hunt Varsity Wrestling Team compiled a 7-3 record. Third year coach Steve Foglio said, "This year's team has had more success than any other wrestling team in Fort Hunt's history, and with many young wrestlers coming up from J. V., the team should improve even more." Coach Foglio attributes his team's success to their hard and rugged practices. Freshman Mike Novogratz and Senior Ted Harder led the team through competition with 9-1 and 6-4 records respectively.

A Year To Gain Experience

The experience gained was the biggest asset to the 1979-80 Varsity Boys Basketball Team who ended their season with a disappointing record of 3-17. Starting the season with only three returning lettermen and one new head coach was difficult, especially when the position of head coach had been filled by three different men in the last four years. The team started out slow when they were defeated by Marshall but became stronger as their experience and confidence grew. Helping to achieve the team total of 1167 points were high scorers Neil McFarlane and Ricky Alston. The experience gained by the eight juniors on Varsity will have a tremendous effect on the program set for 1980-81. Captain Neil McFarlane predicted that, "In years to come the team will be pretty rough."

Future Looks Bright For Fort Hunt Basketball

Opening the season with a seven game winning streak the J. V. Basketball Team was very successful. This winning record was a reflection of the time and effort given by each player. For the first time in several years the J. V. Team qualified for the Gunston District Tournament. Coach Casey was very proud of this team and said, "This team deserves a great deal of recognition and support." Along with the J. V. Team's success the Freshmen Basketball Team experienced a similar season. With long practices directed by Coach Hamilton the Frosh were able to end the season with a 12-6 record.

Inexperience Plagues Varsity

In spite of F. H. Girls Varsity 4-15 record there are always bright spots to overshadow the problems. Junior Chris Bauer broke the school record for total career points scored with a total of about 700. Coach Ron Grow predicts that Chris will reach the 1000 point mark by the end of the next season. Other bright spots on the F. H. team included good all around performances by Michelle Gahart and Beth Abernethy. With most of this year's team returning next year, Coach Grow's team should be a strong contender for the district crown.

JV Shows Promise For Future

A young JV Girls Basketball Team proved to be of superior quality for their 79 80 season. An 11-9 record was gained by well played games and team spirit. Their loses were often too close for their opponents' comfort. Effort filled input and much time from Ms. Saake in her second season coaching produced a quality team. Outstanding performances from Margaret Duffy resulted in her moving up to Girls Varsity. Overall, the outlook for next years team with many of the players returning, should have more experience for a winning team.

Developing Perfection Takes Practice, Patience

Gymnastics, composed of much concentration and flexibility, requires great body control. With several inexperienced gymnasts, daily drills each lasting 2 ½ hours were necessary in developing the team as a whole. Taking a new twist, the team began lifting weights early in the year. Lifting every other day provided the girls with the strength necessary to produce an effective routine. As the season progressed, proficiency increased and the gymnastics team became a very successful group. In hopes of placing individually in district and regional competition, the girls continually pushed toward higher goals of achievement. The Federals placed second in the Gunston District and five gymnasts succeeded in advancing to regionals, Gina Barisano, Leslie Howerton, Angie Stransbery, Patty Kosciuszko, and Gail Bond.

Anticipation is mixed with anxiety as team members Melanie Carr, Jill Larson, Lori Lese, Lori Olson, and Melissa Malnerich await the outcome of the meet.

Competing against Lee, Patty Kosciuszko proves that strength is a vital factor in producing a pleasing bars routine.

Relaxing from the usual seriousness at practice, Leslie Hawerton tries to unwind.
Having mastered her optional routine, Angie Stansbery shows perfect form in the Hayfield meet.

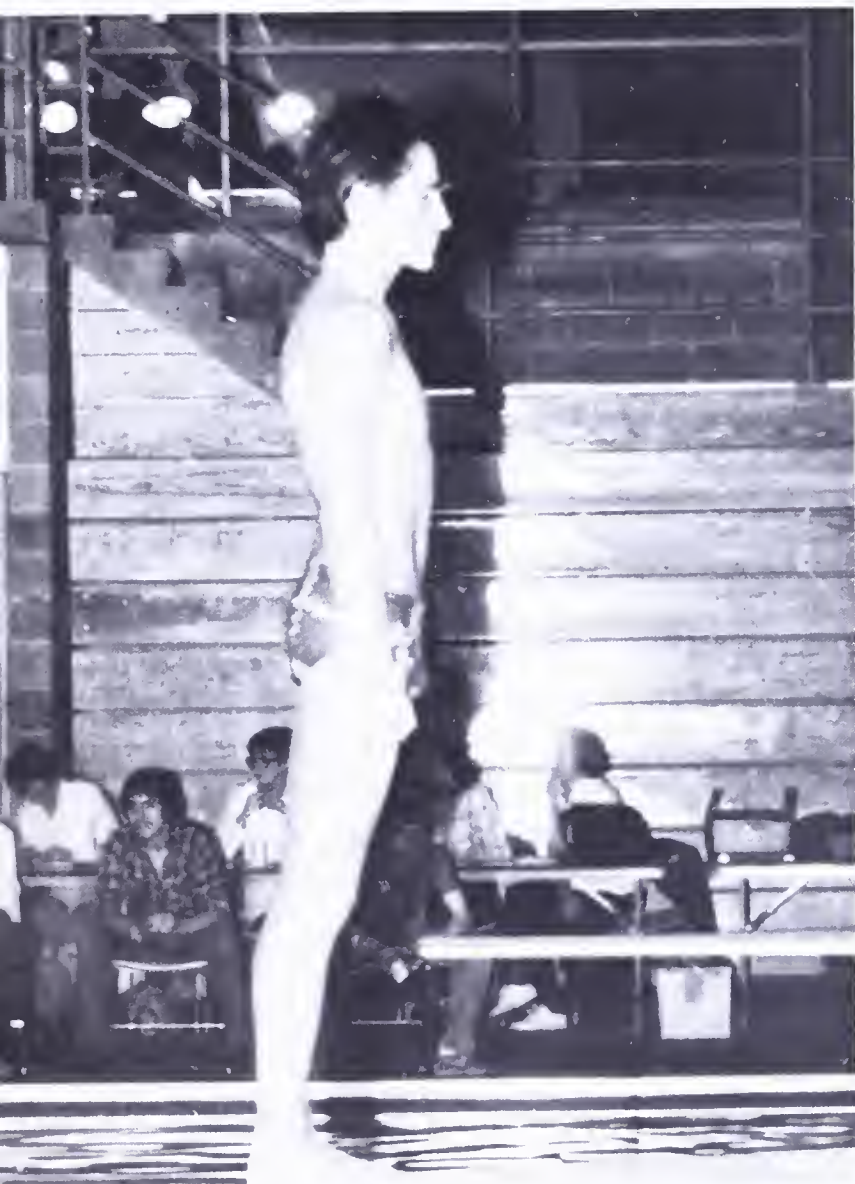

Concentration and balance are shown by Susan Thrower as she propels over the vault in squat-through position

Team Retains District Title

Consisting of strong, dedicated athletes the Farr Hunt Swimming and Diving Team started and finished the season well satisfied. Though the team had fewer members than in the past, it was still able to place high at invitational meets and retain the title of Gunstan District Champions. As Mr. Gaudreault put it; "We have quality but not quantity." Having a small team has its disadvantages but the 1979-80 Swimming and Diving Team didn't seem to let that stop them from making it to the top.

Freshmen Accept Many New Roles

With determined class officers and a spirited class council, the Freshman Class accomplished great feats this year. Starting the year out right, the Freshman Class received 2nd place in the Homecoming floor competition with their version of the Three Little Pigs. President Dan Bean, Vice President Mike Navagratz, Treasurer Dan Henry, and Secretary Jill Larison had no trouble finding help on such fund raisers as doughnut sales, car washes, and candy sales. With all their spirit and enthusiasm, the Class of '83 should be a great asset to Fort Hunt High School in the years to come!

Freshmen Add A Little Talent

Throughout the school year one could see numerous Freshmen participating in such activities as the band, sports, or service clubs. As the school year got under way many Freshmen accepted their new roles at Farr Hunt and got involved in many extra curricular activities. Even with the problem of getting adjusted to a whole new environment, many Freshmen found time to get involved and support the excellence of their class.

Right: Enjoying themselves and adding to the spirit, the Freshmen class attend their first pep rally.

Sophomores Get It Together

Rebuilding their lives around the Fort Hunt scenario, Sophomores meet the challenge. Having spent only half of their Freshman year at the Fort, they finally completed a full term at Fort Hunt.

The officers collaborated to unite the Class of '82 to accomplish their many goals. Sophomores tried everything from car washes to selling pens to rake in the dough.

Spirit became fervent during Homecoming week, as they strived to accumulate points toward a class victory. The most decisive achievement of the week was winning of second place in the hall competition. Throughout the year the Sophomores successfully reached their goals, keeping their powerful reputation.

Class Of '81 Steps Up

Taking a taste of upperclass life, the Juniors entertained several advantages; the big switch was being behind the wheel rather than having to bum rides. Other priorities and achievements included winning the Homecoming Spirit Keg, looking down on both Frosh and Sophs, and making it to Saturday morning PSAT's after attending the post Homecoming game B.Y.O.B.s! We've come a long way, baby!

Junior Partiers Prevail

Walking down the Junior hall, one can surely tell it's Friday. Jumbling conversations can be heard with the one main question stranding our amongst the confusion - "Where are the parties?" Groups of people hoard together trying to get things organized for the night in hopes of having an excellent weekend.

Finally it's Friday. "What! No parties!" This doesn't stop the Juniors; they decide to head for the Hill, if nothing there, then they hit Old Towne. The class of '81 always manages to make a party. The Junior partiers do prevail!

Chris Barker and her friend find it difficult to stay straight.

The Soil Of The Past And The Seeds Of The Future

Kahlil Gibran

Senior year carries with it many images of a laid back, fun-filled year. The Class of 1980 jumped head first into their final year of high school with the expectation of party filled weekends and a curriculum consisting of English, government and gourmet foods; however, for most of us, this did not prove true. At first, we couldn't believe it — here we were, right at the point in life where decisions and responsibility are just as much an aspect of life as partying and road trips. College and careers loomed over our heads as we finished our applications or went for job interviews. Graduation announcements, caps and gowns, and senior pictures made us realize that Graduation was nearing. Then, as is in a dream (is this real?), the Class of Nineteen-Eighty stepped out of Fort Hunt High School, ready to face new challenges and carrying always the memories of our years at the Fort.

Seniors show their enthusiasm while trying to win the spirit keg

Sparked Enthusiasm Fires Up Seniors

Spirit in the Senior Class was shown in wide varieties this year. At pep rallies there was the usual cheering section with the unusual and off key humming of "Pomp and Circumstance." The class also found it amusing to wear firehats after the reopening of the Fort. It wasn't a surprise to see Seniors carrying their favorite lunch box to school after experiencing a week of cafeteria "Super Sacks." Homecoming was a total success for the Seniors after they won Spirit Week and 1st place in the float competition.

The summer of '79 was filled with anticipation and a bit of anxiety as we looked forward to our upcoming Senior year. We knew that rough times, but also fun times were ahead, so most of us took it easy over the summer. Some travelled abroad but others only got as far as Ocean City or King's Dominion on the Senior class trips. No matter what we did though, it seemed we all had fun and will never forget the summer of '79

Where Will We Go From Here?

Well, those of us going to college knew it would happen. Getting caught in the endless maze of catalogues, applications, and transcripts were just part of being a senior. Remember rushing around trying to get our applications to Mrs. Nichols before deadline date and then waiting nervously until February to see if we were accepted or not. But wasn't it all worth it when you opened the letter from your favorite college and saw that word --- CONGRATULATIONS!!!

Seniors Definitely Know How To Have Fun!

Although we worked hard academically, we had many after school activities to keep our schedules full. Many of us participated in sports, clubs, and even worked part-time. On weekends, we kept ourselves busy by having parties, going out with the gang, hitting Georgetown or Olde Towne, and doting (if we were lucky). Of course, if there was nothing else to do, MacDonalds was the traditional spot to go to find out exactly where the action was that night. No matter what we did, the Class of 1980 always had a good time.

Energetic Officers Spearhead Class

Aiming for unification and organization of the Class of '80, the officers worked to locate the supposedly lost Senior spirit. The Class Council directed their efforts towards the diminishing enthusiasm brought on by the fire. All the activities sponsored by the Senior Class proved that these efforts were worthwhile. The car washes, condy sales, our first place hall and floor, the prom, and other Senior activities were successful because of the great outburst of energy and spirit of the Seniors.

Class Of '80 Sees The Light

A new world of opportunities awaits us. Teachers and friends must be left behind. We do not grieve, for we know that as our future may call for separation, the joy and unity we once experienced will remain dear in our hearts. Though the way ahead may often appear cloudy, the Class of '80 sees the light.

As the school year ended we had witnessed not only the state of a school, but an important part of our lives had come to an end. To the Underclassmen, this year provided enthusiasm, joy, and sometimes pain. To the Seniors, however, this year itself didn't mean the completion of our high school careers, but a time to reflect on the experiences of the past few years. As the year ended, we knew that our year would be full of other interesting experiences.
